

01/18/2013, 20:00 GOATMEN release their initial album Before It Rains

Linked with their first live show at the B72 club in Vienna, GOATMEN will present their first album.

Via nocturnal data exchange, GOATMEN Adam Wehsely-Swiczinsky and Florian Prix produced 12 songs in the (voltage) range between live instruments and chunky electronics.

The resulting - sometimes rather stubborn -dynamics of the music move between blues, rock, soul and electronic music.

Their debut album, "Before It Rains" is published by monkey music. The Album release date ist January 18th, 2013 .

Live implementation

Dispite the electronic production process, Goatmen is also a live act. Adam and Florian are joined on stage by renowned musicians which flavor the Goatmen sound with their distinct musical approach. The lineup includes keyboards, two guitars, bass, drums and loops. (names?)

The band:

Adam Wehsely-Swiczinsky (vox, git, perc)

Florian Prix (git, u.a)

Roman Stift (bass)

Gerhard H ffler (drums)

Stefan Poiss (keyboard)

Biography

Industrial designer Adam Wehsely-Swiczinsky and media technician Florian Prix, actual childhood friends, experienced their first musical decade together. They composed and performed in several formations and with different lineups.

In the following "solitary" years, both Adam and Florian developed their own musical approaches. Florian focused on composition and arrangement with "The Bunny Situation and different experimental projects. Adam concentrated on live performances: The live-implementation of "Mind.In.A.Box", "Hornyphon" and other bands.

2010 - almost 20 years later - their productive cooperation resumed and Adam played some of his "late night" tracks to Florian.

The logical consequence: Florian arranged the songs, programmed additional lines and recorded some guitar tracks.

The result will be available on January 18th, 2013
